Philadelphia	67	87

Cleveland wins the American League Championship easily with New York a bad second, and Boston and Detroit tied for third place and St. Louis close behind them.

In the National League the dope is so close that to pick a winner from the first five is practically impossible. By the closest sort of doping, and by dealing with the fractional pitching in between the teams, Cincinnati seems to have a slight shade due only to the consistency of the team, which may or may not endure. Chicago dopes second with Pittsburgh and Brooklyn very close up and practically tied in every respect, excepting pitching in which Brooklyn excels at present.

And here is one thing the dope has taught me: When teams practically tied in the dope figures, play the team with the strongest pitching staff.

The National League dope shows a queer thing in one respect. You know, by my system, we endeavor to learn the position strength of each team in defensive work and the attacking strength. Having learned these we simply figure the pitching strength of one team against the attacking strength of each other team in its league. In the National League dope St. Louis figured ahead of Brooklyn, but when I came to study what the Brooklyn pitchers ought to do against St. Louis and the other six teams, and what the seven rival teams ought to do to St. Louis pitchers, the positions were reversed. I studied it several times always with the same result.

The dope scarcely gives any team in the National League a chance to beat Cleveland. It would require almost five per cent advantage of luck and the breaks of the game to give New York an equal chance. From the study of the dope I would be inclined to think that if Cleveland should again suffer its annual run of hard luck, and accidents which would give the others a chance, the two teams most dangerous are New York and Detroit, because of their punch.

We can safely count Chicago, Washington and Philadelphia out of even a remote chance of winning.

The White Sox are badly shot and are getting no better, and while both the others have improved the improvement is not sufficient to give them a dark horse chance at winning.

In the National League, however, only Boston and Philadelphia are much rouser than the others in figure well, but there are many latent possibilities in the team.

Getting personal a bit, I do not think Cincinnati will win in spite of the fact the figures show her to have the most strength. Remember, it requires only a slight change of luck or a few bad breaks in games to turn a National League team into either a champion or a sixth place club.

It is human nature for champions to get a bit chummy and the Reds have shown symptoms of this. Also it is human nature for all the others to try to beat the champion. In other words, every team in the National with a couple of good left handed pitchers will save them and rest them up to beat the Reds, and therefore the path of the Champions will be a rougher one than it was last year, when practically the entire league was pulling for them to win, after their own chances went glimmering.

Remember also that there are still remaining several very large teams. There still are four holdouts who may change the complexion of things materially and there is one big trade hatching even now that certainly will

Here's your opportunity to buy a lot and later build a home CHOICE GARDEN SPOTS

In Orchard Addition, on Cross Street between Jefferson and Orchard Avenues

SOIL—None better anywhere for fruit, berries or vegetables.

WATER—One-fourth share of Lynne Irrigation Co. stock with each lot.

SIZE OF LOTS—Frontage of 50 feet either on Jefferson or Orchard Avenue, varying in depth from 147 to 172 feet.

PRICE—From $375.00 to $500.00 per lot, according to location and depth. Substantial payment down, balance monthly payments, at 6%. (Compare these prices with any other lots in the city of similar size.)

These points are worthy your most serious consideration:

Only two blocks from Washington Avenue. City water for the house, and from Lynne Ditch for the lot.

Lot sufficiently large to run a nice flock of chickens, grow your own fruit, berries, and vegetables. Have them fresh from the garden at only a fraction of the cost charged by grocery stores.

Gives you an opportunity to fight the High Cost of Living.

After you have paid for the lot, you will find no difficulty in borrowing money with which to build a home.

There are only 22 of these lots. Beat the other fellow to it and secure yours without delay

Valuation Officers Checking
Up on Value of Railroad Property

Frank L. Mary, senior land appraiser, division of valuation, of the interstate commerce commission, with headquarters at San Francisco, accompanied by Lawrence Hansen, valuation division of the Union Pacific railroad, with headquarters at Omaha, Neb., arrived in Ogden yesterday to attend to the appraising of Union Pacific property in this city. The men will be here for several days, according to Colonel C. A. Back, right-of-way agent for the Union Pacific system, with headquarters in this city.

Mr. Mary said that the work of appraising values of railroads had been going on for six years and would continue indefinitely. Over 250,000 miles of roads will be appraised, he stated, and as the work is slow, it will take considerable time.

The men will be located in Ogden for a month and will then continue to Evanston, Wyo., where they will continue their work.

Continues Meetings For Country Women

The series of meetings conducted by Miss Rosina Skidmore, clothing specialist of the extension division, Utah Agricultural college, for the benefit of Weber county women and girls will continue this week in five county towns. Women of the farm bureau are declared to be very enthusiastic over the clothing work with Miss Skidmore and classes held at the local bureau have been well attended. The schedule for the week beginning April 12 is as follows:

Marriott, Monday, 2 p. m. and 7 p. m.
Kanesville, Tuesday, 10 a. m. and 2 p. m.
Riverdale, Wednesday, 1 p. m.
North Ogden, Thursday, 10 a. m. and 2 p. m.
Huntsville, Friday, 1 p. m.

FRIDAY WARMEST DAY THIS YEAR; FREEZE FORECAST

With a bright sun and a cloudless sky, Friday was the warmest day of 1920 in Ogden, according to an announcement made this morning by C. A. Back, local weather observer. The period of real spring was short-lived, however, for a drizzling rain began to fall yesterday morning and predictions of the weather bureau are that snow will fall today and the temperature will drop.

Freezing temperatures are predicted for the western portion of the state and a general snow-storm throughout the state, with the exception of the extreme southern section.

The maximum temperature yesterday was 67 degrees, with a minimum of 45, in the early morning hours.

Candlesticks were used in England in the days of King Edgar.

Improve the chances of the Yanks if it goes over.

If I were a betting person I'd string along with Cleveland this year and take a flyer on the Chicago Cubs or the Pirates to win, with Brooklyn one, two, three. However I never bet excepting one bet per year and that is already clinched on the proposition that the New York Yankees will hit into twenty more double plays than any other club in the American League. I need a hat, anyhow.

And now that the doping is done, I intend to exercise my very large right to root for whoever I damn please, regardless of dope—so I'm pulling for Robby and Spoke.

LITTLE SEED AD SHOWS IT DOES PAY TO ADVERTISE

Does it pay to advertise? We'll say it does!

In Friday's Standard-Examiner was a small display advertisement announcing the paper would distribute FREE SEEDS to its readers.

That one small "ad" was enough. It worked the office force off its feet.

There's no telling what would have happened had the ad been spread over a half page or a whole page.

Before 10 o'clock yesterday morning 1,000 packages had been distributed. The steady stream of advertisement readers continued and at noon 2,000 packages were gone.

Each if the Standard-Examiner's 13,000 subscribers is entitled to these free seeds and it looks as though every one would claim his share before many hours have passed.

HERE'S A CHAP WHO'S WORRYING A BIT TOO MUCH

Snow and rain in the Uinta forest are causing apprehension, declares Ranger A. Christensen, of that forest, in information received yesterday at the local forest headquarters. He said that he feared a heavy growth of grass that would be so long that permittees' cattle would be lost and the permittees might hold him responsible for their loss.

SCHOOL GARDEN WORK GOES ON

Students to Be Enrolled in Farm Army; Certificates
For Successful Ones

Taking up again the plan of the United States school garden army, the students of the Ogden city school system will be encouraged to plant vegetable and flower gardens this year. Although July 1 will spell the end of the free supply of city water for gardens, a method has been devised by Professor A. E. Bachman for the carrying on of garden work until the water from the mains is shut off. Early crops will be chosen, including lettuce, radishes, peas and early beets.

Those having irrigation water will be assisted through the later season. Students will be enrolled in the garden army and will be presented with the insignia provided. Certificates will be awarded the completing their garden work successfully.

MILLSTONES WITH HISTORY TO SERVE AT SPERRY OFFICE

Dedicated as a lasting tribute to the first flour mill in the Rocky Mountain region and a criterion of advancement in the milling industry, one of the historic Italian millstones, serving since 1850 in the Advance Roller Mills, will be placed in the terrazzo entrance to the new office building of the Sperry Flour company in Ogden, writes Charles W. Robinson, associate editor of the Ogden mills in the April issue of The Sperry Family.

This stone, measuring one and one-tenth meters in diameter, weighing seventy pounds, and of the finest gray granite, was one of eight quarried on the sunny slopes of Mount Vesuvius, Italy, in 1844.

The eight stones, consigned to Nauvoo, Illinois, were part of the cargo of the fore-and-aft-rigged schooner "Blen Vioje" of Cardiff, which sailed from Naples in 1845, bound for New Orleans.

On the voyage the "Blen Vioje" apparently did not live up to her name (Good Voyage). While off the Bahamas one of the millstones was lost overboard in a violent storm. Possibly the wily Don in command commandeered it for a deep-sea anchor and the cable parted.

Up the Mississippi from New Orleans to Nauvoo, where a change of plans of the consignee caused a transshipment back to the mouth of the Missouri, the stones were sent up-stream to Council Bluffs. From Council Bluffs to Ogden, a distance of more than a thousand miles, the seven remaining stones were transported on ox-carts, and at last put in service, almost five and a half years after the order was placed.

To replace the stone lost at sea, one was fashioned out of native granite, which, after forty years of continuous service, proved superior to those imported.

NOTICE B. R. T.

There will be a special meeting of the B. R. T. at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the regular lodge room. By order of J. C. Davis.

PECULIAR REQUEST IN BOSTON MAN'S WILL

The executor of the estate of L. S. Tainter, formerly general manager of the Publishers' Paper company, Boston, Mass., sent a peculiar request to the district forester, a copy of which has been received at the district forester's office in this city.

Mr. Tainter died January 25, and the following paragraph was included in his will:

"I direct that my body be cremated; and it is my desire, if the consent of the department officials can be obtained, that the ashes be enclosed in an indestructible container of copper or other appropriate material, and securely deposited in a suitable excavation hollowed out of the solid rock upon the ledges on Whiteface mountain which are situated, according to my present recollection, upon lot 49, in Waterville, New Hampshire, said lot, together with other lands formerly owned by the Publishers' Paper company, having been acquired by the United States of America, through its forest service, as a part of the White mountain forest reserve. If this disposition of my ashes cannot be made, then I desire that they be scattered to the winds at some spot in the White mountains. I request my friend, Froome T. Watson, to carry these provisions into effect, at the expense of my estate."

The executor of the estate applied to the district forester for permission to carry out Mr. Tainter's wishes. Arrangements have been made to issue a permit as soon as a place is selected by the executor.

National Forest Examiner W. F. Hill has returned to the Florida national forest for the purpose of furthering the land exchange work which is there being carried on. On account of the many vexing difficulties which he is encountering, Mr. Hill has come to the opinion that as many things may go wrong with an exchange case as with a last season's Ford.

A. C. Expert Talks On Home Beautifying

Beautification of home grounds was the subject of an address delivered Friday night by Emil Hansen, landscape specialist of the Utah Agricultural college, before members of the Fair West local farm bureau. Sixty-five men and women were present. Other talks made included: "Eradicating the House Fly," by Bessie Taylor; "School Lunches," Mrs. C. F. Larkins and Miss Chugg; "Junior Farm Bureau Work," Mrs. Laura Brown. Songs were given by the junior farm bureau girls and refreshments were served.

Roads Bureau Will Get War Equipment

Notice was received yesterday at the Ogden office of the U. S. bureau of public roads that one of the first shipments of war department material under the recently approved Kahn bill had been made from Norfolk, Va. It consists of two large steamshovels. They make and of three-quarter yards capacity. Value of the two shovels is placed at about $18,000. An extended list of materials wanted has been sent to Washington headquarters, and definite word on the materials allotted is expected in the near future.
